English is formally introduced in second grade with just four hours of instruction a week. The amount of formal English instruction increases as the students matriculate through the grades. Students gain a strong foundation in their second language by learning to read and write in Spanish first.

Studies show that this is the most effective way for immersion students to gain the most proficiency in both a first and second language. To read extensive information about our immersion program see the area on our website entitled, "What is Immersion Education".
